

A new approach to housing and infrastructure for First Nations

First Nations Capital & Infrastructure Agency of Saskatchewan

Who we are

The First Nations Capital and Infrastructure Agency of Saskatchewan (FNCIAS) is a First Nations-led, non-profit focused on delivering funding and providing appropriate supports for housing and infrastructure to member Nations.

What we do

FNCIAS is an advocacy and support agency that, with the input of member Nations, will provide a new framework for delivering housing, operations & maintenance, and major capital project dollars. Services will continue to be delivered by First Nations, Tribal Councils, and service providers.

Why we are doing this

It's time to work together and lead our own way to build something that is our own. Respecting the autonomy and needs of each nation and working alongside our member Nations, we can redefine what essential infrastructure is and create vibrant, thriving First Nations.

Where we are in our journey

We are currently in pre-operations. In this stage we are engaging with member Nations to develop the service delivery model and are creating a Funding Gap Analysis to develop a funding model that considers inflation, overcrowding, and population growth.
